

How do I get the Geomagic software and obtain a dealer license?

Z Corporation notifies Geomagic when you sign on as a ZScanner 700 dealer. You must go to <https://portal.geomagic.com/request.php?action=resellerLoginRequest> to register yourself within their system by filling out the form. You will receive a password within a day.

After you receive your password go to http://www.geomagic.com/en/about\_us/resellers.php to log into the Geomagic reseller site. On the bottom left hand side of the page select 'Request NFR License' (you must provide the MAC address of the computer where Geomagic will be used). After Geomagic sends you the license file, a new option to download product will appear on after you log in. Download the software and place the license file in the program file directory or launch the application and follow the instructions for manually mounting the license.

What are the benefits of being registered on their Reseller Portal?

- As a registered dealer of Geomagic you will have access to their corporate sales and marketing collateral.
- You can get NFR (Not For Resale) Licenses for anyone within your organization.
- The ability to issue 30 day licenses for prospect, no questions asked also a valuable asset of being a registered dealer.

What is available for Geomagic training?

There is some good introductory training right on their website. Geomagic provides self based training modules at training.geomagic.com that cover the basics of the interface, mesh repair and surfacing. Modules have also been copied and placed on the ZScanner Partner Site.

Geomagic offers full Studio and Qualify training at their North Carolina facility for authorized Dealers free of charge. Dealers would of course have to pay their own travel costs to North Carolina or to an International Office for training outside the USA. The training schedule under the 'Calender' link at training.geomagic.com. Resellers will be responsible for providing support, but Geomagic is also very hands on and willing to support alongside the Dealer, they expect this and have built this into their business model and staffing.